Client Worksheet

Launching a website or starting a new design project can be a scary task. Sometimes you're not too sure on exactly you want or even if it can be done. A good starting point is to fill out this Client Worksheet as it helps you to visualise your ideas and clearly articulate what you want. It also gives me some initial background information about you, your company and your idea, so we are both on the same page right from the beginning. With a few simple questions, we will be able to generate a more accurate understanding of your projects vision. Think of it as a business plan, the more information you can give us, the more accurately we will be able to respond.
